The Galy Known Cure is Proven so in Thousands of Cases where Physicians and All Remedial Agents Failed.

The letter from Mr. Wm. Giesz, a reputable and widely known citizen of 923 West Morgan Street, Denison, Texas, is a testimonial of gratitude. He says: "I know what I have suffered for thirty years, and I know there are so many suffering with Eczema, that I want my testimony published to the world. So intolerable had the disease become with me that at times I felt as though I would as soon be dead as alive. It afflicted me badly in the face, making it exceedingly red, but S. S. has driven this humilating color entirely away and my patural comface, making it exceedingly red, but S. S. S. has driven this humiliating color entirely away and my natural complexion has returned. I have been badly afflicted for thirty years; had tried salves, ointments, washes and other external remedies and spent hundreds of dollars seeking a cure without being benefited until I used S. S. S., which permanently cured me in a short while."

Mr. W. P. Brush, Secretary of Missouri and Kansas Short-horn Breeders' Association, of Kansas City, Mo., was afflicted with Eczema, the disease breaking out in patches on the inside or palms of the hands, and he says in a letter concerning his case that his hands itched and burned, causing much discomfort, at times being more aggravated than at others. He concluded he had Eczema, and confirmed his opinion the was in turn treated by second physicians, and the was in turn treated by second physicians, and used several external applications, and in some instances, slight, temporary relief was secured, but it was not until he used S. S. S. that he found himself completely cured, with no sign or symptom of a return of the disease.

Has cured thousands of cases of Eczema, which is a disease of the blood finding an exit through the pores of the skin in aggra atingly irritant form, causing a continual distressing and tantalizing itch, which is continual distressing and tantalizing itch, which is highly intensified during the hot summer months. The blood once tainted with Eczema, the disease an everlasting one unless S. S. S. (Switt's Specific) is used to extirpate it. There are as many forms of the disease as there are causes for it. In the mildest form it is annoying and disfiguring, reddening and pimpling the skin, often in the face; and in the malignant form, it is unendurable torture, in many cases wrecking the nervous system completely.

Whether you have Eczema in an incipient form, or a case deep-seated and of long standing, S. S. S. is an absolutely sure and positive cure. It is guaranteed to cure Eczema. Tetter, Scrofula, Cancer, Contagious Blood Poison and all forms of blood and skin diseases. Book on these diseases mailed free.

Mr. Subjett tells me he was of the fa-

"I think," says my venerable friend and correspondent, "you knew all these men as well as I, for they were of our best citizens. I know not if any of the old troopers survive. Excepting Samuel Cottrell, Robert B. Smead, John F. Lay.

Bob and Eugeny Crouch, and myself. Bob and Bunny Crouch, and myself. Thus tells a mighty tale?"

The old trooper refers in loving terms to the officers who commanded respectively the Henrico and Chesterfield draunderstanding between them and the cab tain of our company to dine every reand 19th of October, at such places as each commander in turn might designate by a card of invitation. Our dining-days found as sometimes at Buchanan's Spring, or Fairfield, or Bloody Ron, or Ritchle's Spring or the Farmer's Hotel, in Manchester. O, these were bully

Both his preuccessors and his successors in command of this famous company were gentlemen of note in the military annuls of Eichmond. What must have been the pride of these brave old captains, who saw in their ranks none but equals—what their confiience who knew if an emergency arose every man would answer the call of the

This pathetic story of Dick Gaines, the black bugler of the troop, is told by Mr. Subjett: "Do you remember," he says, "our noted horn-blower? After the Southampton war he went crazy on music. He used to walk the streets of Richmond blowing a fife, as if his whole soul was in it. I have known him to stop in from of the old Columbian tavern and blow continuously for an hour or more. This would be a little before the packet was booked to leave its landing, at the head of the basin, If any of our guests happened to be going that way Dick would accompany them, with grave military steps, and continue his march as far up as the old Armory. all the while blowing, till the beat turned the bend at the Tredegar and was lost

The Richmond Light Dragoons was in existence before and subsequent to the war of 1812. When the startling news came to Richmond Tuesday, the 23d day of August, 1831, that the negroes of Southampton had risen, and were putting to death its white inhabitants without regard to age, sex, or condition, the troop, under command of Captain Randoiph, marched on the instant, with full ranks, to the infected district. The Artillers Returns Captain large Battery, Captain Richardson com-manding, followed at slower gait. The Public Guard, stationed at the old Arm-ory, were deemed to be sufficient for the protection of the city. No other volunteer company than the two men-tioned appears to have been in existence at the time. A cavaley company was at the time. A cavalry company was hastily formed to take the place of the departing one. The city was said to be in its usual state of undisturbed com-posure. Patrollers doubtless assisted the night watch on their beats, but no mention is made of their service by the newspapers of that period.

Nothing worthy of noise occurred during the march of the Richmond troops southward, rave this ludicrous incident, which was told me many years ago by one of Captain Randolph's men:

Dick Gaines, the aforesaid black bugler, maybe having gone beyond the troop as they were passing through a thick wood, fell unawares upon an ambush of patrollers. who, seeing a horseman, booted and spurreds and mistaking him for General Nat. Turner, or other black rebel, fixed their triggers to shoot him. Dick, surprised as much as they, wheeled about face, and ducking his head below the neck of his horse, to escape a volley, dashed wildly back to the troop, who,
